New!!! www.yourCEsource.org

We are proud to announce the grand opening of the new CFMC Office of Continuing Education web site www.yourCEsource.org. The comments we received from our customers and contacts have led us to the creation of this new site. It is important to us that our tools match our level of service. The aim of this new site is to serve our customers and community in a way that aligns with our goals of improving health care. The site will be changing and expanding on a regular basis to fit those goals and to serve you better.

YourCEsource.org will provide you with the necessary information for planning a CE activity. This includes helpful links and resources. From www.yourCEsource.org you will be able to access forms to help us gather the necessary information to assist you with meeting your continuing education goals. Once your activities are scheduled, we will advertise them for you in our course listings pages. Here potential attendees can browse upcoming activities, where they will see your activity listing and be able to access your web site linked within your activity listing. We are happy to provide this free advertising as a way to increase attendance at your activity. The www.yourCEsource.org site is a convenient way to get important information regarding continuing education. You can browse articles and archived newsletters at your convenience.

We will be updating the site regularly, adding content to help increase understanding and to inform our visitors about important changes to continuing education. In the next few months, we will be adding a customer log-in function that will help to serve our customers needs in a variety of ways. This will allow you to view documents and to participate in forums dedicated to continuing education. Through this function, attendees of your activities will be able to log-in and complete their evaluation online which will then generate their certificate of professional credit. These evaluations are used in the outcomes measurement process to help you identify areas of improvement and to plan for future activities.

This web site was created to fill your needs, if you have comments or suggestions we would enjoy hearing from you. You can visit the website at www.yourCEsource.org and leave comments through the contact us page. It is helpful to create a bookmark to the site to make it easy to return as often as you like. We thank you for your help in creating www.yourCEsource.org we hope that it serves you and our continuing education community well.

The screenshot shows the website's navigation menu on the left, including links for Home, CE Services, Education Tools, Available Courses, Resources, Articles, FAQs, Links, Newsletters, and About Us. The main content area is titled 'FAQs' and contains several questions and answers regarding joint sponsorship, co-provider status, accreditation costs, and outcomes measurement.
